BUILDING WEALTH, ONE FAMILY AT A TIME

In a market challenged by rising interest rates and increasing home prices, Ruth continues to thrive—not by focusing on sales volume or quotas, but by prioritizing people. With over 13 years of experience in Hawaii real estate, Ruth has built her business around one core value: serving each family with care, no matter the size of the transaction.

"It's always been about each family," Ruth shares. "Every client has a story, and my job is to understand their needs and help them move closer to their dreams."

Whether helping a first-time buyer or managing a complex investment deal, Ruth brings the same level of dedication, attention, and integrity to every client. She remains committed long after closing, staying in touch, offering guidance, and celebrating her clients' successes as they grow.

Ruth is especially passionate about helping families who once believed homeownership in Hawaii was out of reach. Through education, strategic planning, and her signature hands-on approach, she's helped many first-generation buyers not only purchase their first homes but go on to grow impressive real estate portfolios—something they once thought impossible.

"My mission is to show families—especially in the Filipino community—that they can build wealth through real estate," Ruth says. "Even if they start small, the important thing is to start. And I'm here to walk with them every step of the way."

Ruth's story is one of purpose, passion, and perseverance. As she looks ahead, her goal remains clear: to continue helping families build generational wealth through real estate—one family at a time.
